TOTAL ON-SITE INSIGHT.

KEEPING YOU UP AND RUNNING.

Schneider Energy Consulting is a regional leader in providing a wide range of oil and gas consultants focused on drilling, completions, water transfer and water disposal. Schneider has been dedicated to providing the highest quality of oilfield services in Colorado, Wyoming, Utah and Oklahoma and continues to meet customer needs with efficiency and a focus on safety.

OUR EXPERIENCE. YOUR SUCCESS.

For over twenty-five years Schneider Energy Consulting has been helping E&P companies find the people resources to manage their well-site operations. As shale plays in North America continue to expand and the industry's talent gap continues to widen, quality expert well-site supervision is one of the industry's biggest challenges.

For us, it's about quality—not quantity. We're not in the business to just put people to work. We're in business to help you find success by putting the right people to work, and that means providing the best consultants in the industry, who are the right fit for your operation every time.

DEDICATION THAT MAKES THE DIFFERENCE.

Schneider has a proven track record of delivering what the operators need most, where they need it.

At Schneider Energy Consulting, we look at things differently. We see every decision as an opportunity to do things better, more intelligently and more conscientiously. With the oil and gas industry changing more and more every day, we know leading the way is going to take extra effort to make those changes work effectively for our customers and consultants. What's more, we know that with leading comes accountability. That's why we go above and beyond to demonstrate our commitment to our customers and consultants, ensure the safety of our employees and protect our environment and communities with the highest degree of integrity and enthusiasm.

Our mission is to help our customers achieve their goals—and then deliver more. In doing so, we take it upon ourselves to hand-select consultants that have the needed expertise, hard working and passionate about what they do to ensure that our customers consistently receive the expert attention and service they deserve.

And by going the extra mile when it comes to working in the most efficient, safe and ethical manner possible, we set ourselves apart from other companies and provide the leadership and partnership that our customers expect. After all, there is nothing greater for us to hear than, "They did everything expected of them, and more."
